What is children's community publishing?

- Publishing means a story can be shared with many.
- Publishing is the opportunity to make beautiful copies of words and illustrations.
- Publishing is the magic that takes an idea, hands it out to the world and allows it to grow.

It's great to hear so many good news stories about keeping language and culture strong, particularly with a number of wonderful programs in primary schools. Giving kids the opportunity to learn an Aboriginal language is going to change not only their outlook on life, but how Australia grows up as a nation. Which local languages are being taught in your local primary schools?

Far from extinct, Indigenous languages thriving in public schools in Dubbo
